Our Weekly Round Up!

Plans for Bilton Beach!

This will be made during half term!

But we need to fundraise for sand!

More details of how you can help, will follow...

Message from Mrs Fawbert:

I am SO excited and thrilled to tell you that during half term, a community team will be constructing our huge sandpit! It will be 10m x 10m of sleepers, then a diagonal line of tyres, so approximately 50m²! We will need to do some urgent fund raising over the next Friday 1st May few weeks, to raise money for the play sand, otherwise a sand pit without sand, isn't much fun!! :o(

I will be sharing information with you all next week about how you can possibly help with our fundraising. Every little will help us get the 25 tonnes of sand we need! This will be a wonderful example of our wonderful Bilton community working together, for the benefit of our children.

Current school attendance:

94.12%

(school target is 97%)

Attendance

A reminder that good attendance is crucial because it directly supports learning and consistency. Being present regularly, helps the children keep up with lessons, understand key concepts as they're taught, and avoid falling behind. Consistent attendance gives the children more opportunities to participate, ask questions, and develop skills, ultimately leading to greater success over time.

What's going on after half term - notices/information:

SEND workshop: Next Wednesday morning we are hosting a morning with our Educational Psychologist to speak to parents/carers about how to support a neurodiverse child. Anyone is welcome and we hope that lots of you will take this opportunity.

Ryton Pools trip: On Thursday our Reception children will be going to Ryton Pools for a day of exploration!

David Attenborough's 100th Birthday: Next Friday we will be celebrating David Attenborough's big birthday! The children are welcome to dress as explorers or animals. They will be having a day of learning about him and animals.

Celebration assembly: Will be in the morning next Friday, at 9.10am.

Wishing you a lovely bank holiday weekend!
