Our Weekly Round Up!

Some of the lovely things we have been learning this week: SO proud of everyone's hard work! 🍌🍌🍌🍌🍌

Message from Mrs Fawbert:

Welcome to our weekly round up! This will be a brief update we email out on Fridays. It will showcase what fun things have been going on during the week and reminders for the following week. We will send termly 'Dates for your Diaries' too at the start of each term. This will come out next week.

Year 1 and 2 children have done an exceptional job settling into their new classes this week and already seem very settled. I'm very proud! We can't wait for our new Reception and Nursery children to start school next week. We have lots of exciting settling activities planned for them!

Attendance

Class with highest attendance this week:

Dragonflies

Off to an excellent start this week, but really need to keep up this high standard and momentum.

Thanks for your support.

Bilton Butterflies Nursery

I wanted to share with you our new Logo for Bilton Butterflies Nursery. You might see some darker purple jumpers and cardigans, with this logo. They are our new three-year-olds! 2 spaces still available for this term – please spread the word!

What's going on this week/notices/information:

Marketing our lovely school: Soon we will begin our tours for prospective parents and I urge you to recommend us to any friends or family who have children between the age of 3-7 that might like a place at our nurturing nursery/school. Please signpost them to follow our Facebook page to see what we do and to visit our website. If they phone or email the school, we can arrange to show them round.

Reading books: Key Stage 1 (Years 1 and 2) will start bringing their reading books home next Friday.

PE days: You will have received details of the PE days, homework deadlines, etc this morning.

Resilience Value: This morning the children voted between 3 'resilient' animals: camel, salmon and sea turtle. Sea turtle gained the most votes and so is now the animal we will be using when learning about resilience.

Clubs: Information and booking of extra-curricular clubs for this term will come out next week.

Have a lovely weekend!
